FROM: Artem Atanasov, Chief Sales Officer, Centravis

Our dear clients, partners and friends,

Despite the relentless night shelling by Russian invaders attempting to demoralize the Ukrainian population, Ukrainians defiantly celebrate Vyshyvanka Day, a symbol of unity and respect for our traditions. Our people persistently fight for the right to national identity and independence.

Centravis production remains in full swing, with our Hot and Cold Shops in Nikopol and our production site in Uzhgorod operating seamlessly, and all equipment functioning optimally.

Our diligent logistics team is tirelessly ensuring the secure and efficient delivery of finished products, while our sales offices worldwide remain open and accessible, ready to address any inquiries or requests. Our Financial and Administrative Departments, along with our Customer Support teams, are fully operational and prepared to provide assistance whenever required.

Andriy Krasjuk, our Production Director, is currently stationed in Ukraine and continues to work from the Nikopol location.

At present, I am visiting our partners and clients in the USA, and I am delighted to witness the growing trust of our American partners in Centravis as a reliable collaborator. This trust is reflected in their willingness to increase the volume of orders and to find new areas for expanding cooperation.

We sincerely appreciate your unwavering support.

Sincerely,
Artem Atanasov aatanasov@centravis.com
